When it comes to designing a retail outlet, creating a themed project related to the outlet is a fundamental task. This initiative requires the delivery of new design standards in various retail environments to address work place functionality; adaption to future equipment and technology changes; customer and employee comforts and an attractive visual appeal. One of our major driving forces in our ability to provide state-of-the-art retail outlets lies in our close collaboration with leading European manufactures of modular shop fittings.

Public areas can vary from hotel lobbies and office blocks to factories and shopping malls.

What makes a great hotel lobby for example? The overall atmosphere created by the size of the space, its layout, furniture, the use of materials and the use of colour and texture.
